List of variables

- gisco_id, unique ID of the city as shared by Eurostat;
- lau_name, name of the city in its native language;
- country, country code of the country where the city is located;
- street_name, name of the street as extracted from OpenStreetMap. Streets named after more than one individual are duplicated by the number of individuals they are named after;
- named_after_n, number of entities the street is named after;
- label, name of the person giving her/his name to the street. This information is available only for individuals who have been successfully associated with a Wikidata ID;
- named_after_id, unique Wikidata ID of the person giving her/his name to the street;
- instance_of_label, type of individual, as categorised on Wikidata;
- person, binary value: if person is “1”, the street is named after an individual, if person is “0”, the street is not named after an individual;
- description, description of the person giving her/his name to the street, obtained from Wikidata;
- gender, gender of the person giving her/his name to the street, as assigned at birth (except for a handful of transgender individuals). When the gender is non-binary, uncertain, or missing, the value is “other”. The data is partly obtained from Wikidata and partly coming from manual checks and integrations;
- occupation_label, occupation(s) of the person giving her/his name to the street, obtained from Wikidata;
- occupation_category, category of the occupation(s). Hand-coded based on 5 possible fields of activity;
